MIDDLEBURY RETAINS HOCKEY TITLE

PANTHER, CHAMPIONS FOR FOURTH TIME IN AS MANY SEASONS

Coach Clogston Leads Team On Successful Campaign.

NO STATE DEFEAT IN KELLEY'S CAREER

Blue and White Puck Combine Has Won Five Games Out of Seven.

For the fourth time in as many years the Middlebury hockey team has won the Vermont State Championship. Captain Kelley has led his team in the footsteps of those of McLaughlin in 1926 and Simmons in 1927 and 1928.

Middlebury has resorted to the student Captain-Coach idea in the last few years, but this season Coach Roy B. Clogston, who made such a record with the Panther football team last fall, took over the reins and brought the Blue and White through a hard but successful season.

Coach Clogston lacked four veteran stars of last year's team at the start of the season, but has moulded a winning combination out of the material at hand. The present team, while not quite as skillful as the championship combine of last year, has shown great fighting qualities and promises to live up to the Middlebury hockey reputation. The team's strength has recently been increased by the addition of Melbye, Makela and Nelson, Freshman stars. Five wins out of seven games is the present record of the Panther pucktoters.

Norwich was met on the home rink on January 16 and Captain Kelley's three goals sent them home defeated. The return game was played at Northfield on February 6 and once again the Panther was victorious, this time by the overwhelming score of 5 to 0. Vermont was defeated 1 to 0 on the Burlington rink last Wednesday and the championship was clinched.

The Catamounts come to Middlebury for a return game on Saturday, but this contest has no bearing on the State Title as both the Green and Gold and Norwich have already been beaten twice and the Panther is yet to taste defeat.

With a full sized rink to play on and a good surface, the Blue and White should trounce the Vermonters thoroughly. The conditions of the upstate rink were decidedly against the fast skating Panther pucksters and so it can hardly be expected that the score will be as close in the return game.

Alchemists' Club Elects Paul Van Ess President

The Alchemists' Club held a business meeting in the Chemistry building last Wednesday evening at 8:00 p. m., with about 15 members present. Paul R. Van Ess '29 of Catskill, N. Y., was elected president for the remainder of this year. Theodore C. Kramer '29 of Cleveland, O., was chosen vice-president and Wallace M. Kelley '29 of Saxonville, Mass., secretary.

The Alchemists' Club consists of students interested in the study of chemistry, and holds meetings every month. There have been four gatherings this year, the most recent of which was featured by a lecture by Prof. P. C. Voter on the subject of quack medicines. On this occasion the club invited such freshmen as were interested to attend, and many were present to hear Prof. Voter's interesting discussion.

F. A. SIMMONS DIES SUDDENLY; COLLEGE -- TRUSTEE SINCE '22

Middlebury Alumnus Was Treasurer of Harris, Forbes & Co.

Fay Alton Simmons '02, trustee of the college and treasurer of Harris, Forbes & Co., died suddenly Sunday evening in Lincoln, N. H., from overexertion in attempting to climb Mt. Lafayette.

Born in Dorset, Vt., November 6, 1878, he received his preparation for college at Burr and Burton Seminary, Manchester, Vt. After receiving his B. S. degree from Middlebury in 1902 he was principal and superintendent of schools at Pittsford, Vt., until 1904 when he went into business in Manchester.

In 1907 he was given a position in Harris, Forbes & Co., and was made treasurer of the firm in 1916. In 1921 he became director and in 1922 was chosen trustee of the Harris, Forbes Saving and Profit Sharing Fun.

He has been a trustee of Middlebury since 1922 and was also a member of the finance committee of the college. He has also been for several years one of the trustees of the Middlebury chapter of Delta Upsilon.

Mr. Simmons is survived by his wife, Nellie Hadley Simmons and two children, Barbara and Carleton H. Simmons '28.

Always enthusiastic about everything connected with Middlebury Mr. Simmons has entertained the college Glee Club and Band several times at his home in Wellesley Hills, was always present at alumni banquets and was a frequent visitor at the college.

SPRINGFIELD HANDS PANTHER CAGE TEAM 33 TO 22 SETBACK

Middlebury Basketball Five Falters After Leading At Half Time.

VISITOR'S DEFENSE TOO MUCH FOR BLUE

Casey and Humeston Play Well on Defense—Locals Weak On Offense.

By WARD S. YUNKER

Flashing a sure fire attack and a tight zone defense, the Springfield College basketball team defeated the Middlebury quintet on the local floor Saturday night by a score of 33 to 22. The Red and White passing game worked with clock like precision and wore down the Panther defense after the locals had led 16 to 15 at half time.

The Blue and White offense was decidedly off form as shot after shot was missed. During the first half the Springfield boys were held even, but they drew away in the second period as the Middlebury defense cracked under the strain. The locals showed lack of stamina which is probably due to the long periods of inactivity between games. The boys were fighting against both the schedule and the Springfield team and the combination was too much for them.

The game was probably the fastest seen on the local court this year, but would have been faster if Referee O'Brien had not called so many fouls.

DEBATE TEAM MEETS ALBANY LAW SCHOOL

Schedule Includes Contest With Rutgers, N. Y. U. and Upsala.

The college debating team left this afternoon for Albany where a debate will be held this evening with the Albany Law School on the subject "Resolved: That the American Jury System be abolished." The team is composed of Sam W. Pattee '29, Raymond Saulnier '29, Arthur H. Lawson '30, and Richard H. Amerman '31. Middlebury in this meeting will uphold the negative.

Following the Albany Law School debate, the men will journey to New Brunswick where the team debates Rutgers University Thursday night. Upsala College will be the team's opponent Friday evening at East Orange, while the squad will meet New York University the following Monday at the Friends' School in Brooklyn, N. Y. Middlebury maintains the affirmative of the Jury question in all these debates.

The varsity debating squad held tryouts for the regular team Thursday, and the men selected to make the trip were chosen by the Debate Council which includes Professors V. S. Goodreds, coach of debate, V. C. Harrington, J. S. Kingsley, H. M. Fife and Saw W. Pattee, undergraduate representative.

The team has recently held a series of debates with the squad upon both sides of the jury question. Those that took part in these meetings were L. L. Haskins '31, C. W. Abbott '30, Giles Chase '32, and R. Kline '32. For their work and assistance the team has received valuable training, while the squad members will find that their time has been valuably spent when they take part in various intercollegiate debates later in the season.

Those men who have been chosen for the present team have taken part

BLUE AND WHITE IN 1 TO 0 VICTORY OVER VERMONT PUCK TEAM

Captain Kelley Makes Only Goal In Fast Game.

PANTHER DEFEATS ST. STEPHEN'S 2-0

Poor Ice Makes Game Very Slow—Kelley and Makela Score.

By WARD S. YUNKER

The Middlebury hockey sextet engaged in two games last week and was victorious in both. Vermont was met on the Burlington rink last Wednesday and the Panther crew clinched the state championship by winning 1 to 0. St. Stephens came to Middlebury Saturday and was sent home with a 2 to 0. defeat as a souvenir.

Middlebury, 1; Vermont, 0.

Handicapped by snow covered ice and an unusually small rink, the Middlebury hockey team was forced to fight hard to win from the University of Vermont on the latter's surface last Wednesday by the score of 1 to 0. The game was all Middlebury, but superb goal tending on the part of Hendricks and the inability to pass the puck due to snow kept the score down. The win clinched the state championship for the Blue and White.

The game was fast from start to finish, the smallness of the rink making it impossible for puck hogging. The ice had not been scraped and was covered by snow. This made passwork impossible as the puck would not slide and so both teams resorted to solo work more or less.

Goalie Hendricks was tested time and again as Kelley, Makela or Crocker charged in on him. Foote and Nelson checked the Vermont attack in Green and Gold territory and the Cats were never able to get going. Hendricks had to save over seventy direct shots at his net while Douglas was only tested nine times in the entire contest.

Coach Abraham of Vermont was using a new lineup in hopes of holding the Blue and White in check. They managed to rough things up a little, but they found Captain Kelley and his crew a little too much for them even at their own game. Foote and Nelson thrived on the roughness dished out by the upstaters and more than one Cat player found himself sprawled on the ice after an encounter with this sturdy defense pair.

Chemical Warfare Service Tests Corson's Discoveries

Dr. Corson has recently been informed by the United States Chemical Warfare Service that several new substances described in his publication in the Journal of the American Chemical Society last October have been tested by the Medical Research Division at Edgewood Arsenal. These tests consisted in the determination of the minimal lethal dose by subcutaneous injection of white rats and also a series in inhalation tests upon man. These substances were accidentally discovered last year by Professor Corson and Mr. Stoughton.

In determining the irritant effects of these compounds upon man, each compound dissolved in ethyl alcohol was placed in a 50 cc. burette connected to glass tubing which entered the side of a glass gassing chamber of 720 liters capacity. The chamber was

Vol. XXV. February 20, 1929 No. 18

The undergraduates, alumni and faculty of Middlebury extend their sincere sympathy to Carleton H. Simmons '28, his mother and sister on their recent bereavement.

WELCOME ALUMNI.

If the winter homecoming is as successful as the one held last fall at the time of the Vermont game the plan may well be made an annual affair. We hope so anyway as it breaks up the monotony for us as well as giving the alumni a chance to see us in the middle of the year instead of at commencement time only when many of the underclassmen are gone and the seniors are too busy to entertain the returning graduates.

Here's hoping we have enough snow for the carnival so that alumni and visitors placing faith in Vermont's reputation as a winter resort will not be treated to a spectacle of melting snow and ice such as was witnessed last year.

MILLIONS FOR UNITY.

Yale has just received seven and a half million dollars with which to establish an institute of human relations which will study the interrelations of the many factors influencing human behaviour.

With a steadily growing percentage of students attending college for cultural rather than vocational reasons curriculum makers have been confronted with a serious problem. It was their task to make a college education valuable to many who knew little about what they wanted and cared less. Their first stey was to establish an orientation course for freshmen. This practice is widespread and has accomplished a great deal by giving the first year student an insight into the vastness of existing knowledge.

But unless the undergraduate has very definite plans along which he can direct his four years of study he is apt to graduate with the feeling that he knows a little about everything and not very much about anything. When it comes to applying principles obtained in one field to problems arising in another he is lost.

Yale has recognized this diversity of study and seeks to bring about, in its place, a unity of knowledge in all that relates to human behaviour. Specialists in sociology, biology, psychology, economics, medicine and psychiatry will cooperate with each other in an attempt to solve some of the complex problems of human behaviour.

SENIOR ORIENTATION.

Leaving Yale to spend her millions as she will we are confronted with the remaining fact that a senior orientation course would help the graduate in his conflict with the world as much as the freshman is aided in his college curriculum by the first year sociology course.

Strictly speaking, Middlebury has not me this need but she has in her philosophy and sociology departments, two courses, Constructive Philosophy and Social Efficiency, which go a long way to bring about a unity in the physical and social sciences respectively.

Both of these courses have, however, apparently had a departmental origin and are not offered primarily as senior orientation courses. They are permission courses and as such open to only a limited number. This is as it should be and has made possible a quality and quantity of work impossible in a class unlimited in numbers.

And so the need still remains for a course open to all seniors and having as its aim the bringing together of the many strands of knowledge obtained by the student in pursuit of a cultural education.

VIEWPOINTS

Mr. Coolidge on Mental Standards.

Two great tests in mental discipline are accuracy and honesty. It is far better to master a few subjects thoroughly than to have a mass of generalizations about many subjects. The world will have little use for those who are right only a part of the time. Whatever may be the standards of the classroom, practical life will require something more than 60 per cent or 70 perecent for a passing mark. The standards of the world are not like those set by the faculty, but more closely resemble those set by the student body themselves. They are not at all content with a member of the musical organizations who can strike only 90 per cent of the notes. They do not tolerate the man on the diamond who catches 80 per cent of the balls. The standards which the student body set are high. They want accuracy that is well-nigh complete. They apply the same standards to candor and honesty. Bluff and pretense may be permitted in the classroom; but in their relations with each other students regard such practices with contempt, and those who resort to them are properly considered to be cheap. They may be willing to view with considerable tolerance those who break the rules of the school, but they will not fail to mete out condemnation and penalty to those who break the rules of training. When the world holds its examinations it will require the same standards of accuracy and honesty which student bodies impose upon themselves. Unless the mind is brought under such training and discipline as will enable it to acquire these standards at an early period, the grave danger increases that they may never be acquired.—President Coolidge.

The Lady of "The Cabbage Patch" Returns.

A little over two decades ago Alice Hegan Rice wrote "a little book that sent a smile around the world." It was called "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and its world-wide success is one of the phenomenal stories of the book publishing business. Though the book is over twenty years old, The Century Co. continues to sell more copies of it each year than are ever sold of the average novel. It has been dramatized and filmed; it has been translated into seven languages. It is of little wonder that a French critic says that "Alice Hegan Rice has a claim on the hearts of nations." Now Mrs. Rice has written another book which has stirred the enthusiasm of her publishers. It is entitled "The Buffer" and will be published in March.

WAMBA SAYS

Surely the spring fever epidemic is not here yet. It certainly appears that way to some persons.

Just think, only seven more weeks and we can shine up those old golf clubs and that tennis racquet and maybe we'll be able to use them too.

The library is not a social hall, but if the students continue to use it that way, maybe something can be done, such as, the provision of a space to dance. The college would probably make an appropriation for an orchestra and even tea could be served.

It's a shame only so few took advantage of seeing a hockey game on a beautiful spring afternoon. If the pucksters depended on student support to win, they would have a clean slate most every season. Yes, opponents total 50. Middlebury total 0.

Do you want to see some fun? Then you must see the carnival this weekend. No "kidding", it is the most original exhibition of ski and ice performances in the country.

The Freshmen seem so quiet this week. Wonder what they have in mind?

Rumor has it that the Junior Week Committee is planning some real surprises.

LITERARY NOTES

A Practical Farmer on the Farm Problem.

Ellis Lore Kirkpatrick, author of the widely discussed book "The Farmer's Standard of Living" which The Century Co. has just published, is himself the product of an Iowa farm. He was pressed into active farm work at the age of seven to help his widowed mother by picking berries, hoeing potatoes, "sprouting stumps", cutting thistles, and riding the horse "down the truck rows" while his mother and older brothers held the plow handles. He became a farm hand at fifteen and in order to earn enough money to go into farming for himself he taught in country schools and later worked his way through the agricultural college. Dr. Kirkpatrick's work led him into a wider study of the farmer's economic problem. He became an expert agricultural economist in the U. S. Department of Agriculture and is now associate professor of Rural Sociology at the University of Wisconsin.

The total population of South America is about 80,000,000.

Mr. Pattee has been a member of the varsity debating team since his freshman year and is at present manager and captain of the team. Last year he won first prize for the best debater in the men's college, and as a freshman took the Parker Speaking contest. He is active in Wig and Pen work and has had parts in many leading plays. He is leader of the college band, and an assistant in the department of drama and Public Speaking. He is a member of Beta Kappa fraternity.

Mr. Lawson is assistant editor of the CAMPUS, literary editor of the 1930 Kaleidoscope, assistant manager of debate, and as member of the Wig and Pen has taken part in many Playhouse productions.

Mr. Saulnier was president of his class as a freshman and sophomore. He is an active member of the Dramatic and Economics clubs, and was advertising manager of the 1929 Kaleidoscope. He is an assistant in the department of Economics, a member of Delta Tau and Chi Psi fraternity.

Mr. Amerman is assistant editor of the CAMPUS, and has won numerals in cross country and first Parker prize. He is a member of the English and Dramatic Clubs, the Interfraternity Council, and Chi Psi Fraternity.

equiped with a Lehman air pump, which drew a current of air through the chamber at the rate of 100 liters a minute. The solution of the compound was allowed to flow from the bruette at the rate of 1 cc. a minute and was delivered into an evaporating dish where it was quickly volatilized by means of a hot plate. The vapor of the compound was mixed with the air in the chamber by means of a small electric fan. The subjects were connected to a valve on the side of the chamber and breathed the gas-air mixture though a gas mask facepiece.

According to the official report 'one of these substances, m-nitrobenzalmalononitrile, proved to be an outstanding sensory irritant, comparing favorably with certain well known chemical warfare irritants." It causes intense irritation of the eyes, nose and throat. However, these substances will probably never be used in Chemical Warfare since their irritant effects pass off quickly after exposure. The so-called "successful" war gases have delayed effects persisting for eight to forty-eight hours.

A. S. P CONTINUES CAGE TOURNEY LEAD

K. D. R. Holds Second Berth D. K. E. Advances to Third Place.

A. S. P. 49; B. P. 19.

The strong Alpha Sigma Phi quintet managed to keep their lead by trampling the Beta Psi five 49-19. The game was very one sided as the score indicates. Hardy, A. S. P., was high scorer with 16 points to his credit. Hoyt, B. P., led his team with 13 points.

K. D. R. 61; Neutrals 17

The Kappa Delta Rho five decisively defeated the Neutrals 61-17 in a one-sided but hard fought game. In spite of the suggested superiority of K. D. R., the Neutrals deserve a great deal of credit for putting up as game a battle as they did. At half time the victors led by a score of 29-5. Williams, K. D. R., was high scorer with 16 points, while Giles Chase, Neutral, polled all but three of his team's 17 points.

D. U. 21; S. P. E., 11.

Delta Upsilon handily defeated the Sigma Phi Epsilon quintet by a score of 21-11. At half time the victors led 14-5. With the second half the Sig Eps seemed to improve and consequently the game became closer. Livingston, S. P. E., and Thiele, D. U., shared the high-scoring honors with 7 points apiece.

Chi Psi 21; B. K. 16.

The Chi Psi five defeated the Beta Kappa aggregation 21-16 in a slow game. Chi Psi led at the half by a score of 9-4. The second half was a great improvement over the first. McDermott, Chi Psi, was high scorer with 10 points while Kelley, B. K., trailed with 8 markers.

D. K. E., 54; B. P. 20

The Delta Kappa Epsilon five decisively defeated the Beta Psi quintet by a score of 54-20. The game was very one-sided, half time finding the Dekes ahead 34-8. Webber was high scorer for D. K. E. by accounting for 22 points of their total. Hoyt's six points won him high-scoring honors for Beta Psi.

K. D. R., 30; D. U. 18.

Kappa Delta Rho decisively defeated Delta Upsilon by a score of 30-18 in a game that was extremely close at the beginning but very one-sided at the close. At half time the score was 18-14 in favor of the eventual victors. During the second half D. U. was able to sink but two field goals while their opponents were running their score up to 30. The losers missed enough foul shots in the first half which, if they had been successful, would have kept them close behind the victors throughout the game. Embler, K. D. R., was high scorer of the game with a quintet of field goals, while Paul, D. U., led his team with 8 points.

A. S. P. 39; Neutrals 9.

The A. S. P. cage team kept its slate clean by trampling over the Neutrals 39 to 9. The game was one sided throughout as the Neutrals were unable to make more than a few feeble efforts.

C. P. 19; S. P. E. 12.

In a fast and close game the Chi Psis managed to squeeze out a 19 to 12 win. The game was nip and tuck from start to finish and the result was in doubt right up to the final whistle.

Thirty Couples Enjoy Tea Dance at Middlebury Inn

About 30 couples enjoyed the Tea Dance held Thursday afternoon at the Middlebury Inn. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served during the dance. Dick Fenderson's three-piece orchestra furnished lively music.

The Tea Dances will be held occasionally throughout the winter months if the present enthusiasm among the students continues.

These are days when mucn is strenuous in speech and feeble in execution.

Seniors Lead in Second of Basketball Series

The Seniors and Sophomores were winners in the second of the women's inter-class basketball games played at the gymnasium Tuesday, February 12.

In the Senior-Freshman game Marchiano was the outstanding player among the forwards and Sibley put in some fine work as a guard in intercepting passes. Clark was the high scorer for the Freshmen while Omwake and Cady were the best guards.

The second half of the Sophomore-Junior game was fast and marked by more outstanding plays than the first half. Kocher and Knox were equally good as forwards in the Junior line up. The guards as a whole played well though none were outstanding. Legate as forward and McNulty as guard did the best work for the Sophomores.

The Seniors now have two gomes to their credit while the Juniors and Sophomores each have one.

The scores:

Seniors 35 Freshmen 25
Sophomores 42 Juniors 29

Springfield Quintet Defeats Middlebury

Point for point was the story of the first half. Middlebury got the first score when Cameron fouled Spooner and "Forrie" made good on the free try. Duncan tied the score a few minutes later on a foul shot. Each team scored again from the charity mark and then the Springfield captain sank a basket from under the hoop with Humeston retaliating with a pretty shot from the foul line. The lead changed hands time and again as first one team and then the other scored.

Casey was playing a wonderful defensive game and held the flashy Duncan in check. Sorenson missed three shots in a row, but Johnson and Humeston shot baskets to tie the score after Springfield had taken the lead on baskets by Ackerman and Cameron. The half ended as it began with both teams scoring via the charity route to give Middlebury a 16 to 15 lead at intermission.

Shirey dropped one in from the right side of the court at the beginning of the second half to give Springfield the lead. Both teams then missed on free tries. Johnson was pushed by Gustafson and made good his free throw to tie up the score. Spooner sank a foul, but Duncan came through with a long shot from the right side to give the Red and White the lead once more. The Springfield captain again scored and Gustafson added a foul shot. Cook sank a long one to increase the lead. Middlebury was now fighting hard, but the coordination seemed to be lacking and the Bay Staters drew farther away on a successful free throw by Shirey. On a pretty bit of passwork, Shirey counted from under the hoop.

Casey and Humeston were fighting to keep the score down, but could not seem to get much help. "Dick" fouled Cook and had to leave the game via the four personal foul route. Ashdown was sent in by Coach Beck and played forward while Sorensen went to center.

Johnson sank a pretty basket from the left side of the floor, but Shirey retaliated with a twin counter from under the hoop. The Blue and White missed a couple of opportunities to score when Sorensen could not seem to get rid of the ball. Duncan sank a basket and Valois was substituted for Spooner. Casey came through with a neat long shot and narrowly missed two others. Elerin made good on a foul shot to make the score 33 to 22 as the game ended.

The visitors exhibited a well balanced team, so well balanced that there was no one star, but there was a star team. The scoring was well distributed with every Red and White player connecting for at least one point. The defense of the Springfield team kept the Panther at bay throughout and smooth passwork worked the ball into scoring position so that the Bay Staters were not forced to resort to long shots.

Humeston and Casey played their heads off in a vain attempt to keep the Red and White combination in check, while Spooner put up a good defensive battle, but it was to no avail as the Springfield offense found openings and made the most of them. The Middlebury offensive did not break fast enough to catch the visitors before their defense was set and once that five man wall was intact, the openings were few and far between. Johnson played well and sank three pretty baskets.

The Blue and White quintet was off color and it is to be regretted that the schedule cannot be arranged so that there would not be time for the team to get rusty between games .

HOCKEY TEAM FACES STIFF ASSIGNMENTS

Princeton and Williams Played on Foreign Ice; Vermont Here Saturday.

The Middlebury hockey team faces three hard games this week. The Vermont State Champions played Princeton last night. Williams will be met today and Vermont will come here for a return game on Saturday.

Princeton has been enjoying sensational success on the ice this year. Up until the defeat by Yale Saturday night the Tiger sextet had won thirteen straight games. Among the victims was Clarkson Tech which has one of the strongest hockey teams in eastern college circles. It was all that the flashy "Ding" Palmer and his unbeaten Yale puck team could do to subdue the Tiger by a 2 to 1 score and so a Middlebury win can hardly be looked for.

The Williams sextet has been fairly consistent this season and will furnish tough opposition. While we cannot predict a Middlebury victory as the Purple has a strong team, we are hopeful.

Vermont will come here Saturday for a return game with Captain Kelley and his crew of puck toters. The Panther subdued the Catamount 1 to 0 in the game played at Burlington last week, but we look for a larger score this time. Conditions were none too good at the Vermont rink and with good ice, the Blue and White skaters should win handily.

An insurance company which has made a study of the life records of 5,000 former college athletes, and of 6,000 honor students reports that the honor students live longer. That is to say, the average longevity of the group who were conspicuous in college for their scholastic endeavors, is greater than that of their associates who were prominent in sports.

Winter Sports Meet at New Hampshire Rained Out

The dual winter sports meet between Middlebury and the University of New Hampshire that was to have taken place February 18 had to be postponed because of lack of snow. Over the week-end the prospects of a white terra firma looked promising, but during the evening preceding the meet, a warm rain descended so that by starting time, the blanket of snow had all but disappeared and the meet had to be cancelled.

This week the team will participate at the Brattleboro (Vt.) National Championship Meet. February 25-26 they are entered in the Intercollegiate Winter Sports Union Championship which is the State Classic.

From the sound of the opening whistle until the end of the contest there was not the slightest bit of doubt as to which team would be the victor. It was just a question as to how well the Vermonters could hold the Panther in check. The puck was in the Green and Gold territory throughout and it was only on rare occasions that Foote and Nelson had to play defensive hockey. Most of the time the entire Middlebury team with the exception of Douglas was swarming all around the Catamount goal and it was only the spectacular work of Hendricks that saved Vermont from a drubbing.

The first period was fast and the second period was faster, but the third period produced the most torrid action of the contest. The Blue and White players abandoned all semblance of defense and stormed the Vermont goal. Chagrined that they had not been able to score earlier, the Panther put all he had into a final effort. The Vermont players never got a chance to break loose. Two minutes before the end of the game, Captain Kelley got his stick behind a loose puck in front of the Vermont cage and drove home a lightning like shot that completely fooled Hendricks.

The remaining two minutes of the contest saw Middlebury attempting all their tricks in an effort to score again, but Hendricks remained firm.

Conditions at Burlington were not favorable to the Panther team at all, but with Vermont facing the Blue and White on the home rink this Saturday, things will be different and we look for a thorough trouncing of the Catamount.

The lineups:

Middlebury (1)	Pos.	Vermont (0)
Douglas	Goal	Hendricks
Foote	L.D.	Collins
Nelson	R.D.	Lawrence Denault
Crocker	L.W.	Schurman

Kelley	C.	Siegal Marvin
Makela	R.W.	Mercier

Goals: Kelley (M) 1

Middlebury, 2; St. Stephens, 0

The Blue and White defeated St. Stephens, 2 to 0 on the home rink last Saturday. The game was exceedingly slow due to soft ice which made combination play impossible.

The game opened with an ineffectual scrimmage in center ice, but after two minutes and five seconds had elapsed, Makela let go a rising drive from about 20 feet out which fooled the St. Stephens goalie completely and Middlebury led 1 to 0. Kelley and Crocker made an attack on the Red and White goal, but Blomquist saved and cleared to L. Smith who dashed back into Middlebury territory only to lose the rubber to Makela.

Attempting a three man combination, the Middlebury forward line lost the puck in the soft ice, but Crocker got possession of it a second later and stick handled his way to the entrance of the goal, but once again Blomquist saved and when Makela attempted to cage the rebound the St. Stephens goalie made another beautiful stop. There was a wild scramble about the net, but no scoring resulted.

Captain Kelley made a solo dash up the ice and after stick handling his way through the St. Stephen's forward

CAGE TEAM TO PLAY 3 GAMES THIS WEEK

Dartmouth Will be Played at Hanover; Albany Law and Vermont at Home.

The Middlebury basketball team will engage in three games this week. One will be played away from home and the other two on the local court.

Dartmouth will be played on the Hanover court tonight. The Big Green team has been having a fairly successful year and will be a tough opponent. If the Blue and White offensive can get going early in the contest the score should be close.

Albany Law School will come to Middlebury Friday night and will face the Panther crew on the home surface. With two games being played previously this week, the Middlebury quintet should be in fine trim and we look for them to make a better showing than they did against Springfield.

The Panther and the Catamount will engage in a return game next Tuesday night. This will be the last home game for the Blue and White this season. The contest between these two rivals played earlier in the year resulted in a 19 to 15 win for the home team, but the score was much closer than the game actually was, and we look for Captain Spooner and his mates to win by a more substantal margin this time. If the Blue and White wins this game the State Championship will come to Middlebury. Even if St. Michael's wins the last game the Panther will have only one defeat chalked up against him, while the St. Mike boys who are the nearest competitors, have already been defeated twice.

Student Government Tea.

The Student Government Association gave a tea Tuesday afternoon, February 12, to the women of the Senior and Sophomore classes. Miss Mary C. Dutton and Miss Marion L. Young poured while women from the Freshman class served. Mrs. J. Moreno-Lacalle entertained with various Spanish songs.

DR. V. C. HARRINGTON SOUNDS CHALLENGE FOR BETTER LIVING

"Use Life's Opportunities Here and Now" Is His Plea.

"Put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground" was the text chosen by Dr. V. C. Harrington at Vespers Sunday.

"There are two questions pressing upon us," said Dr. Harrington "One is 'where', and the answer is 'here'. The rosy tint of somewhere else looks better than that which we have; someone else's job looks better than our own. 'But it is not the place that counts. It is the man. Moving a man into a larger area of activity will not change the man.'

"The way to get a big job is to do a little one well. The student who does well in a great university is the one who has done well in the smaller college. It is not the place that makes the man, but the quality of the man himself.

"The second question pressing upon us is 'when', and the answer is 'now'. Often we lose out somewhere between memory and hope. We look to the past of history and of ourselves and idealize it. And we look to the future and are deceived by hope. The critical time of the world's history is now. If we are going to make anything of life's opportunities, now is the time.

"There is a challenge now to show what manner of men and women we are. If we do not live life to its highest now, we never will. The desperate need of the world is for men who stand for something, for loyalty and ideals. The challenge of the world is as real as the challenge that comes in the most desperate hour of life. It is a greater challenge than that of meeting death. We say we would die for our country. Why not live for it?

"There is joy in living life to its utmost. Here and now is the time, and there is a better way than the way most of us are living. I challenge you to undertake it."

F. N. HOUSE WRITES ON SOCIAL THEORY

Former Middlebury Professor Author of New Text Book.

Prof. Floyd N. House, head of the sociology department at Middlebury from 1923 to 1925, is the author of a text book recently published by Henry Holt & Co., and entitled "The Range of Social Theory". The book is written for the advanced student, and constitutes one of a group known as the American Social Science Series. It is considered one of the most authoritative and valuable books in its particular field of advanced sociology, and has already brought considerable recognition to its author.

Prof. House came to Middlebury in 1923 to assume the professorship of economics and sociology. Previous to his position here, he was connected with the University of Chicago where he did graduate work. He was very successful at Middlebury and succeeded in building up a strong sociology department. He also took considerable interest in student activities, and was one of the members of the athletic council. The excellence of his work here brought him recognition in the way of an offer to become a professor in the department of sociology at Chicago. He is now head of the Sociology Dept. at the University of Virginia.

Prof. House has divided his book into five parts. He considers first the nature of social problems and social theory, and then takes up successively the subjects of geography and social differentiation, human nature and collective behavior, conflict and social control, and the trend of social theory. He dwells at considerable length upon the importance of social sciences in modern society, and the rapid growth and spread of interest along these lines in recent years.

line, skirted the defense to beat Blomquist with an eight foot shot in 10 minutes flat. The remainder of the first period was uneventful.

The second period saw the St. Stephen's team attempting to pierce the Blue and White defense, but Foote and Nelson stood their ground and Douglas was only forced to make two saves. Captain L. Smith of the visitors made some pretty solo dashes, but after stick handling his way by the forward line was stopped by the defense.

Neither team could get clear shots during this period as the puck would not slide at all and unless the shot was raised well in the air, the attempts were hopeless. Coach Clogston put his reserves on the ice and play speeded up for a short time, but the mushy surface made the going hard and both teams slowed up towards the end of the period.

Players were strewn all over the ice during the third period. The surface was well cut up and it was almost impossible to keep upright on the slush. Both teams were weak on the offense and the game ended with Middlebury on the long end of a 2 to 0 count.

The entire game was marred by continual falling on the part of the players. Neither team could show much in the line of an attack as is evidenced by the fact that Douglas had only 8 saves of direct shots and the St. Stephens goalies were forced to save only 14 times. This total is no larger than those of single periods in previous games.

In winning the fifth game out of seven starts, the Blue and White sextet outplayed a green but scrappy bunch of St. Stephens boys. This is the first year that the New Yorkers have had a hockey team, but they have been giving good account of themselves.

Spanish Carnival Plans Undergo Slight Changes

Due to changes in plans and the fact that the Spanish Carnival cannot be held at the Playhouse, the committee in charge has found it necessary to raise the price of admission to $3.50 per couple.

Plans are progressing rapidly to make the Carnival lively and entertaining, and unusual surprises are in store for those who attend. The committee in charge of decorations and novel entertainment seems to be particularly busy.

As previously announced, tickets may be obtained from the Spanish Office, or from O. R. Jason '29, Emily White '29, or Dorothea E. Higgins '30.
